BACK OF TREVINO;
A BREAK IS NEAR

Private Advice From Mexico City Fails to Relieve Situation.

RADICALS DEMANDING ACTION

Members of Carranza Cabinet Said to Demand Prompt Order for Evacuation of American Troops; Mexican Troops Feared Upon Watermelons.

By Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 30.—Private advice received from Mexico City today said General Carranza and his advisers had determined to stand by orders to General Trevino to attack American troops in Mexico moving in any direction except toward the border, and that no way was seen to avoid a break with the United States.

A faction of the Mexican cabinet, it was said, was urging an even more defiant attitude and wanted to include in the reply to the American request for a statement of intentions a new demand for immediate withdrawal of all United States troops now on Mexican soil.

The advice did not indicate when the response from Carranza might be expected. The last word on the subject to the State Department came in a message from Special Agent Rodgers who said he expected the note Wednesday night.

MEXICANS LOOK GOOD.
EL PASO, June 30.—At the Fort Bliss Hospital where the 23 negro troopers who were brought from Chihuahua are being held it was stated that it probably will be several days before it can be determined whether the soldiers contracted any of the diseases prevalent in some districts in Northern Mexico, and before they can be returned to their troops.

When Captain Lewis Morey of the Tenth Cavalry visited his troops, having believed he could not survive the wound which he sustained at Carrizal, Captain Morey chartered with the negro cavalrymen for half an hour.

Twenty-three watermelons, the gift of a local commission merchant, were awaiting the 23 negro troopers when they arrived at Fort Bliss.

"Oh, boy," you don't know how good this tastes after those Mexican fripples," one of the 23 exclaimed as he sank his teeth into a piece of melon.

WILSON WELCOMES DELAY.
WASHINGTON, June 30.—The Mexican situation stood today virtually where it was 24 hours ago, except that four more national guardsmen were hurrying to the border and the time allowed General Carranza to declare his intentions toward American troops in Mexico was growing shorter.

With the troops captured at Carrizal back on American soil apparently there was no intention on the part of the Washington government in force an immediate issue on its demand for assurances that there will be no repetition of the attack on General Pershing's forces.

No time limit was set in President Wilson's note making the demand and there are indications that the administration would welcome further delay of a few days. This would permit not only concentration of a stronger force to meet the needs of aerial hostilities if they should come, but also gathering of supplies, mobilization of transport facilities and strengthening of aerial forces. Army officials believe the advantage of delay to America greatly over balances the similar benefits to Mexico.

For this reason less impatience than might otherwise have been evidenced was expressed in official circles today over the delay of Carranza's note.

The American government has forwarded to General Carranza another communication calling attention to numerous reports of seizure of American property by local Mexican officials. In most cases confiscation occurred after the American owners fled from the country.

MEXICAN IS SHOT.
EL PASO, June 30.—A Mexican leader of the Carranza customs service was killed last night by a squad of American soldiers who fired across the Rio Grande into Mexican territory near Ysleta, 12 miles east of El Paso, according to a report received by General Gonzalez in Juarez today.

Mexican officials said that the man, named Juan Moreno, was riding along the Mexican side of the river in the performance of his duty with a fellow customs guard when the Americans opened fire without warning. The story as told by the survivor placed the number of Americans at eight.

Considerable indignation was expressed in Juarez over the affair and General Gonzalez sent a complaint to General Bell who said he would investigate.

COLONEL COULTER GIVES MEN GOOD ADVICE ABOUT CAMPAIGNING ON BORDER

CAMP BRUNDAUGH, Mount Gretna, June 30.—Emphasizing the necessity of good health in the expected border service, Colonel Richard Coulter, of the Tenth Regiment yesterday addressed all officers of his command on "conservation of energy." He urged company commanders and their subordinates to impress upon the men the folly of over-exercising at any kind, and he advised all to practice a flagrant abstinent diet for use at night. He stated that the climate on the border is such that the men should have extra protection at night, as clothing worn during the day overlaps the organs of the abdomen, so that when the men undress at night they need more covering than ordinarily. Stomach trouble will result from disregarding this precaution, he said.

Colonel Coulter called attention of the commanders to the fact that in actual service no one in particular would be looking after the interests of the regiment except the members themselves. In view of this fact, he said, much responsibility rests with the company officers. When rations are issued, he declared, it is up to them to see that they last the proper length of time. Experience in the Philippines taught a lesson in this respect, the regimental commandant said.

In the Philippines, Colonel Coulter pointed out, conditions were just reversed, the men being nearly starved and the 20 days' rations they received being practically consumed in seven days.

Congressman Crago was present during the Colonel's lecture and he was frequently called on to confirm some of the latter's statements.

Indications now are that the Tenth will spend their Fourth of July on the border although no information has been given out as to when the Second Brigade will entrain.

ARMY OFFICERS AND THE WAR DEPARTMENT ARE CRITICISED
Congressmen Resent Arbitrary Methods at Mount Gretna; Discuss Equipment Shortage.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The alleged domineering attitude of Captain J. B. Kemper, U. S. A., a native of Ohio, toward officers of the Pennsylvania National Guard at Mount Gretna and his alleged efforts to humiliate them came in for condemnation in the House by Representatives J. Hampton Moore and Benjamin K. Focht of Pennsylvania, James R. Mann of Illinois, and others. Representative Mann said such actions warranted a court martial.

Representative Focht said the possibility of actions by officers such as Captain Kemper kept young men from enlisting.

Also the stinging condemnation of the War Department by Governor Fielder of New Jersey was being echoed here by representatives in Congress of numerous states where conditions similar to those in New Jersey prevailed. Governor Fielder charged that delay by the War Department in equipping the guardsmen had held them at Sea Girt long after they were otherwise ready to leave.

Representative Crago of Pennsylvania, discussing this phase of the National Guard situation, said yesterday that the various units of the Pennsylvania guards were ordered to leave Mount Gretna Wednesday failed to get away because equipment due from the federal government was not forthcoming.

Representative Crago is a member of the sub-committee of the House Military Committee named to revise articles of war to govern the movements of United States troops, should war with Mexico occur. He said the sub-committee hopes to have these articles prepared this week.

500 patients each have been established at San Antonio and at Fort Bliss. There also is a smaller base hospital at Douglas, Ariz. Arrangements have been made to establish other base hospitals at Fort Crockett, near Galveston, Eagle Pass, Laredo and Nogales. Camp hospitals have been established all along the border.

WANT TO JOIN T. R.
OYSTER BAY, N. Y., June 30.—Applications for enrollment in a proposed volunteer army division which Colonel Theodore Roosevelt is preparing to organize if there is a call for volunteers are so numerous that the colonel's secretary, Walter J. Hays, issued today a statement in which he said:

"We have been literally deluged with telegrams and letters with applications from men who wish to join a volunteer division. It is impossible to reply individually to the organizations and to the men who have communicated with us, but I am sure that their applications are carefully filed for future reference so that in the event of hostilities they can be apprised of what action is contemplated."

AMERICAN IS RELEASED.
WASHINGTON, June 30.—Release of Harold Hamilton, an American held since 1912 on a charge of murder by Mexican authorities at Oaxaca City, was reported today to the State Department by Special Agent Rodgers in Mexico City. Mr. Rodgers said he had advised Hamilton to leave for Vera Cruz.

Entire Second Brigade Anticipates Early Start for the Border.

NO INFORMATION TO LEAK OUT

War Department Directs That No News Regarding Movement of Troops Shall Be Made Public; Precautions Are Taken to Prevent Train Wrecks.

By Associated Press.
MOUNT GRETTA, June 30.—The First Battalion signal troop of Pittsburgh and field hospital companies No. 1 and No. 2 of Philadelphia left the national guard mobilization camp here today for El Paso.

The first of the Philadelphia infantry regiments is expected to start for the border during the day. Two companies of engineers are going to Texas by way of Washington.

The signal corps will go to the border through Pittsburgh, as well as the first and third infantry, who are scheduled to go out tonight. The Second Infantry will go by way of Philadelphia.

The Second Brigade, which has been disappointed a number of times this week after orders to prepare to move had been received, took heart this morning when the word was passed that General Wood expected the entire command to be on its way to the border by tomorrow at the latest.

The Tenth, which has been under orders to be ready since last Thursday, was ready and waiting for an early start.

TROOP MOVEMENTS SECRET.
WASHINGTON, June 30.—Secretary Baker announced today that orders have been sent to all department army commanders to suppress all news concerning troop movement.

SAN ANTONIO, June 30.—While thousands of guardsmen were moving today toward border stations, extraordinary precautions were being taken to prevent the exact routing and schedules of the numerous special trains from becoming known.

General Funston was instructed to exercise the utmost precautions in concealing details of the mobilization and general managers of all railroads carrying troops were requested not to make public the movement of trains.

It was explained at General Funston's headquarters that the unusual measures were not taken to prevent the news of just where the American troops would be stationed from reaching Mexicans, but to render more difficult any attempt that might be made to wreck one of the trains.

MAY DRAFT ALL GUARDSMEN.
WASHINGTON, June 30.—It was learned today that the War Department legal experts construe the resolution adopted by Congress and sent to the White House yesterday granting authority to draft every enrolled member of the National Guard into the federal service whenever the President shall decide the step is necessary.

The draft would apply, they believe, to all guardsmen whether they take a new oath or not. Under this construction the whole enrolled strength of the state troops, now upwards of 120,000 men, could be called into the federal service without delay and be used either on the border or in Mexico.

EXTRA PAY FOR GUARD.
WASHINGTON, June 30.—Extra pay for foreign service will be allowed the American troops serving against the Mexican border under a decision today by Comptroller Warwick of the treasury. Enlisted men will receive 20 percent additional and officers 10 percent.

DRIVE GERMANS OUT
French Regain First Line French After Losing It.

By Associated Press.
PARIS, June 30.—In a terrific attack upon the French positions east of Hill 304 in the Verdun sector the Germans captured a fortified work in the first line of the French trenches after the garrison had been literally buried under a storm of shells. The position was recaptured by a brilliant French counter attack, according to an official statement issued by the French war office today.

The Germans also delivered a powerful attack on the French positions in Avoncourt wood and west of Hill 304, but all their efforts are declared to have been checked with heavy losses to the attackers.

GAS WELL LETS GO;
1,400 FEET OF TUBE
BLOWN THROUGH RIG

Sudden Increase of Pressure Causes Unique Accident Near Flatwoods.

FIVE WORKMEN ESCAPE UNHURT
Immense Quantity of Four Inch Tubing Blown Through Top of Derrick; Flying Pipe Twisted into Queer Figures; Some Found 200 Ft. Away.

The sudden slipping up of the pressure on a new gas well drilled in the Greensburg Gas Company on the R. L. Byers tract near Flatwoods, Wednesday morning, blew 1,400 feet of four inch tubing through the top of the derrick and carried some of it to a field across the road, fully 200 feet away. Five men at work on the rig escaped injury by a narrow margin.

Farmer Byers fled through his meadow to escape the pipe which was breaking in all directions.

The well was drilled in last week and was yielding a fair quantity of gas daily. The men on the rig were engaged attaching the 4 inch tubing to the casing, which is over six inches in diameter. Their work was completed when the pressure in the well suddenly increased. The threads of the connection were torn loose and the 1,400 or more feet of tubing shot up through the top of the derrick.

The force was tremendous. As the pipe went up in the air, sections broke off and curved up, striking the ground in hundreds of feet away. As the longer sections fell the threads tore apart and pieces went spinning along through the field in all sorts of figures.

After the accident, the fields in the vicinity of the well were strewn with tangled-up sections of tubing. R. L. Byers, the farmer from whom the gas lease was secured, was cutting a swath in his meadow with a scythe so that the rig could be moved when the well got the first kick start.

The accident occurred about 10:30 o'clock in the morning and caused much excitement among the residents of the vicinity. The family of M. L. Townsend, who live only one field away from the well, saw the well going up. They say they never saw anything like the way the pipe went up.

The Byers farm is located nearly two miles on this side of Flatwoods. The Greensburg Gas Company supplies the territory from Perryopolis, Smithton and the immediate vicinity to the Monacahe valley. Its service was extended to Perryopolis only last year.

AMUSING SIGHTS FEATURE FIRE IN DOWNTOWN STORE

Grocer in the Weihe Building Destroyed.

SPECTATORS ARE GIVEN TREAT

Quite a Few Onlookers Are Completely Dressed at 2 A. M. but One Young Man Appears in Yellow Pajamas; No Guest Flees in Nightclothing.

Fire gutted the interior of a grocery store conducted by H. Isak in the Weihe Building about 2 o'clock this morning. Little damage was done to the building, the prompt arrival of the firemen checking the spread of the flames. Considerable stock in the rear of the store was destroyed. Clouds of smoke ascended through the halls of the McKinley Apartments upstairs, causing the guests to gather up their belongings and flee to the streets in dishevel.

The fire was discovered by some men in Bishop's restaurant who saw the reflection of the blaze in a window across the street. They ran to Brimstone Corner and sent in an alarm. The truck was on the scene in a few minutes and the firemen soon had a stream of water playing on the flames. The fire originated somewhere in the partition which separates the front of the store from a supply room in the rear. The partition was flimsy and burned quickly. The fire was readily extinguished.

When the firemen left the store was locked up and no one was allowed to enter until after the Department of Public Safety had conducted an investigation. The loss will be several hundred dollars.

The fire was not spectacular, but there were lots of amusing incidents connected with it. Coming at an hour marking the line of demarcation between "It's early yet," and "It'd better be getting home," it found many night owls on the street or in nearby clubs. In the small crowd that gathered about the scene of the fire were many completely dressed men who vainly tried to explain how they had managed to be so immaculately garbed and on hand so soon after the alarm was sounded. Others who were sleeping in the street, the just when the fire broke out, the early morning air appeared with night gowns, tucked into trousers and house slippers pulled on bare feet, while tousled hair and blinking eyes gave evidence of a sudden exit from a cozy couch. One young man viewed the proceedings in what looked to be a dainty pair of pale yellow pajamas.

Every now and then a sleepy-eyed guest from the McKinley Apartments would appear in the doorway, lugging his baggage and a pile of clothing. A number of them finished dressing on the street. Proprietor Al Donadio went through the building awakening his guests. To make sure they would get out, he broke in some of the doors which were locked on the inside.

Contrary to the usual description of hotel fires none of the guests fled in his night clothes. There were some who did not wait to put many articles of clothing on, but night clothes were conspicuous for their absence, except in the instance noted above.

Director of Public Safety M. B. Pryce, Fire Chief W. E. DeBolt and insurance men made an investigation of the debris in the store this morning. The proprietor, H. Isak, was out of town. They found nothing to indicate how the fire started. There were only three boxes of matches in the place and they were away from the section where the blaze was. There were no gas pipes near and the electric wiring seemed to be all right.

STREET FORCE BUSY

Commissioner William McCormick Cleaning Up for the Fourth.

Street Commissioner William McCormick is working diligently to get the town cleaned up for the Fourth of July. The street force has its hands full right now, and it is requiring an unusual amount of energy to keep up with the strenuous schedule. In addition to cleaning up the streets there is a good bit of other work that has to be attended to.

This morning a force of men was at work grading for sidewalks along Apple street. There is other grading to do in various parts of town and this, in connection with the cleanup, gives no time for idleness.

Commissioner McCormick expressed belief that he would get through on schedule, but he intimated that there might be need for additional men and teams tomorrow and Monday.

William Flinn, for four years the Bull Moose leader of the state, announced yesterday that he is back in the Republican party and will be found supporting Charles E. Hughes and the whole ticket this fall. He predicts that 90 per cent of the Pennsylvania Progressives will be in the Republican ranks in November and Mr. Hughes will have an easy time carrying the state.

WEATHER CONDITIONS ARE IDEAL

Warm Spell is Recorded as a Fine Thing to Prepare the Lads for What is to Come Along the Border; Health of the Camp Exceptionally Good

By O. H. Herwick, Staff Correspondent.
CAMP BRUMBAUGH, Mount Gretna, June 28.—The camp has settled down to the regular routine and drill is the order of the day. The recruits are beginning now to get a line on what is expected.

"Ours," McCormick has been complaining of his bunkmates, Percy Sheets and Arch McCormick taking all the covers at night. Arch therefore dug a trench to keep Percy from rolling out of bed at night.

Joe Reed says he really prefers the dry goods counters to this life, but that he is no quitter.

Jimmy Watson of Monessen with the hospital corps has been dubbed Percy Dink. His hilarity justifies the name; he sure is some comedian.

Lieutenant Eddie Boyle was the first man in the Tenth Regiment to be vaccinated.

Sergeant Carl E. Snair, the war
groom, was talking of getting a divorce owing to the absence of a letter from his wife. He announced with a broad smile today that the action was off.

Much merriment was indulged in at the lake yesterday. The rookies were taken down and baptized and a large crowd gathered to witness the ceremonies.

Weather conditions today are ideal.
"Just the proper thing to condition the men for service on the border," said Lieutenant Robinson of Company D.
"Mink" Moser got a letter from home yesterday and sneaked off under a tent by himself like a hungry dog with a bone.

The boys are spending their evenings about the camp fires in song and story. Some great ones, too.

An eight-mile per hour speed limit has been erected near the Tenth Regiment hospital. The boys have made several "arrests" for speeding but have not collected any fines yet. The autos are fast and frequent.

The health of the camp is extremely good. Nothing but minor coughs have been reported. There was an accident yesterday in which Robert Krutze of Company C, received slight injuries. He was riding a wagon in which equipment, containing 80-pound boxes, was being transported. The horses ran off throwing him off among the boxes. His injuries were not serious.

Harold McCartney of Company D says house isn't nothing like this.
This is Harold's first experience in camp.

The boys of Company D are not spending their money like they have in former camps. They realize the necessity of saving their money. Pay day is a long way off.

Captain Herwick is working his men hard and the Giants are responding generously.

Edward Byrne and Edward Fin-nerty, both of Scottsdale are among the "rookies" of Company E.
Sergeants Homer Moser, Carl Snair and Lyell Buttermore who kidded those who got vaccinated yesterday, are singing a different tune today. He who laughs last laughs best.

ASK REPARATION

The Stewart Iron Company Files Complaint for Spotting Charges.

Reparation of $19,555 has been asked for by the Stewart Iron Company of Sharon, from the Pennsylvania, Erie & Lake Shore railroads for spotting service performed at the Sharon company's plant by its own equipment from April 1, 1914, to May 8, 1915.
The complaint seeking reparation has been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Prior to April 1, 1914, the company was compensated by the railroads for switching and spotting services at its blast furnace. On that date the railroads served notice that the decision rendered by the commission in the industrial railroads case relieved them of any obligation with regard to spotting and switching cars to industrial plants. The decision in the spotting case, subsequently rendered, held that the railroads' obligation did not cease until they had performed this service in connection with the line haul.

After May 8, the railroad companies resumed their contract providing compensation to the Sharon company for performing its own spotting and switching work. The complaint points out, however, that the railroads have failed to pay for the service during the period upon which the claim for reparation is based.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

Will Use Balance of Bob Jones Fund
in Supporting Unlay Services.

The finance committee of the Bob Jones evangelistic campaign has decided, on the recommendation of the executive committee, to turn over to the local Ministerial Association whatever balance remains after all bills have been paid, to be used by that organization in support of union services of the churches during the summer months.

The financial accounts will be audited and report published shortly. It is understood that a balance of $180 or more will remain after all claims have been paid.

Card of Thanks.

Miss Kate Toolan and sister, Mrs. J.
F. Keil, wish to thank those who so kindly assisted them in their late bereavement, the illness and death of their brother.—Adv.

PIG IRON OUTPUT

Is Running at the Rate of a Little Over 10,000,000 Tons a Year.

The output of pig iron today is at the rate of a little over 40,000,000 tons a year, but about three-fourths of this tonnage is utilized by steel companies who manufacture their own pig metal.
The total production, of course, will fall short of the present demand, yet even on the 40,000,000-ton basis only about 10,000,000 tons would be available in the open market, says the American Metal Market. It is an interesting fact that sales of all kinds of pig iron made in the last year, that is, during the second half of 1915 and the first half of 1916, have been record breaking, being a little over 9,000,000 tons. Sales made during the first half of this year will fall short of the contracts placed during the second half of 1915 by about 500,000 tons. Incidentally it may be noted that sales made during the last half of 1915 were the heaviest in the history of the industry, and practically all of the iron sold was for 1916 delivery.

Needed Lessons

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Pison, M. D., L. L. D., Commissioner of Health.

A great essential has been neglected in the education of the tens of thousands of young men and women who are graduating from the high schools and colleges of the country. They are presumed to have been fitted to meet the responsibilities and problems of life. In the majority of instances they have had and mental but not physical education.

Some few have devoted themselves to a greater or less degree to competitive sports. This number is but a small fraction of those who pass through our schools. Our curriculum are often so planned that they make physical development difficult or impossible. To lay the foundation of health there should be proper physical training under the supervision of a specially trained medical man, beginning in the elementary school and going through the college course. A few years of training in youth and early manhood and womanhood would serve to inculcate habits of personal hygiene which would add immeasurably to our future welfare, individually and as a nation.

In every activity of life good health is a primary essential. No mental achievement can make up for a puny, ill-nourished, ill-developed body. Lack of well developed physique almost invariably proves a handicap to achievement. Our present system has failed to bring about a balanced education of mind and body. Individual efficiency and preparedness for the uncertainties of life depend upon this.

Today Sweden is leading the world in systematic education with a resulting high average of citizens individually prepared to take their part in the defense of their homes. Three thousand years ago the Greeks appreciated and practiced in the education of their youth this happy combination. It was this training that produced the scholars and heroes whose names live in the world's history.

DYSPEPSIA OF WOMEN

Special Treatment Required.

Men, women suffer from a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms are similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines usually prescribed do not restore the patient's normal condition.

There seems to be a kind of dyspepsia caused by derangement of the female organism. While this appears to be the same as ordinary indigestion it can be relieved only by a medicine which, besides acting as a stomach tonic, is good for female ailments. Read what a medicine did for Mrs. Williams—

She says:—"Before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was troubled with dyspepsia and bearing down pains in my back and sides, and after my meals my stomach would bloat up till I could scarcely get my breath. At times I was so weak I could hardly stand on my feet and I looked hollow-eyed and my skin was yellow. Now I have a good color, have gained in every way and can do my work without any pains. I think it is the best medicine on earth for stomach troubles of women."—Mrs. NELLIE WILLIAMS, 31 West 3d Street, New Albany, Ind.

MOUNT PLEASANT, June 30.—The members of the 110 department held a meeting last evening when they decided that the week fair planned for next week would have to be postponed until some later time but that the committee leaving for Mount Grotto would not interfere with the Fourth celebration and that the parade would be held, a lawn fete given in the Frick Park and that there would be some good boxing contests scheduled and several other attractions. The committee will have their final meeting Monday evening.

Miss Myrtle Davis entertained 18 little girls at the Walnut street home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Davis from 3 until 6 o'clock last evening. Refreshments were served following the playing of games by the girls. This was Miss Davis' twelfth birthday.

PENNSYLVANIA WOMEN, ATTENTION!

A "Helping Hand" Extended to the Middle Aged Woman.

There comes a time in every woman's life when her organism undergoes an important change. This is a critical period. It is a time when a woman needs her full health and strength. For your own sake you should anticipate this turning point.

Corry, Pa.—"When passing through the experiences of a woman of forty-five, I was in very poor health. Some other remedies were used, but with little benefit, if any. A lady recommended Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription because she had used it for several purposes. I began taking it and it helped me at once. It did me over and gave relief. I am very glad to have others know of this very beneficial application to such cases as mine."—Mrs. E. JENNIS DAX, 44 Brook Street, Corry, Pa.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been recommended for nearly fifty years as a tonic for women who are about to experience "the turn of life." It is helpful in the equalization of the circulation of the blood and in regulating the wounded functions. Nervousness and low spirits disappear. Happiness and contentment take their place.

If you are a sufferer, if your daughter, mother, sister need help get Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in liquid or tablet form at any medicine dealer's to-day. Then address Doctor Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., and get confidential medical advice without fee. You can also obtain book on Woman's Diseases, which is sent free.

UNCLE SAM AGAIN ISSUES A WARNING FOR 4TH OF JULY

Don't Neglect a Wound, No Matter How Trivial,
Is Advice.

DEATH RATE IS FAST FALLING

Against 191 Deaths From Fourth of July Illness, There Was Only One
Last Year, But It Was Preventable.
Blank Cartridges Are Dangerous.

Back in 1905 there were 104 deaths in the United States from Fourth of July illness, this figure representing about the average annual mortality. In 1914, as a result of the institution of better prophylactic treatment by physicians and the widespread agitation for a safe and sane Fourth, the number was reduced to three. A year ago the United States Public Health Service expected and predicted that every youngster in the United States could be safe from this disease, having it not made on what had already been accomplished. When the returns came in it was found that a boy down in Maine had been injured, developed tetanus and died. That single fatality was only one among several hundred thousand occurring in the United States during 1915 but it resulted from fourth of July tetanus or lockjaw, a preventable disease, and was, therefore, an unnecessary death. The loss of this boy makes it necessary to again disseminate information regarding this wholly avoidable infection.

The blank cartridge wound is the great cause of Fourth of July tetanus, but injuries from crackers and fire arms are at times responsible. When driven into the tissues the wadding carries with it innumerable bacilli. If these bacteria reach the poisonous products or toxins resulting from their multiplication produce the disease. Tetanus bacilli thrive only in the absence of oxygen. It is for this reason that the physician enlarges the wound of entrance and after removing all foreign material dresses the injury in such a manner that development of the organism is inhibited. In order to accomplish this it is usually necessary to administer an anesthetic. Anti-tetanic serum is of great value as a prophylactic and it should invariably be given in injuries of this character.

Parents should realize that fourth of July tetanus is easy to prevent but extremely difficult to cure, the disease being attended with a mortality of more than 95 per cent. No blank cartridge wound is too trivial to receive careful medical attention. However slight the injury may appear summon a competent physician who will at once institute the necessary prophylactic measures. Tetanus upon home treatment may prove disastrous and result in the needless sacrifice of life.

OUTPUT OF ABRASIVES

Industry Represents a Production of Over Million and a Half.

The output of natural abrasive materials in 1915 was valued at $1,622,035, according to figures given out by the United States Geological Survey. Millstones and related products valued at $51,150 were produced in New York, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and North Carolina. Grindstones and like products valued at $718,379 were produced in Ohio, Michigan, and West Virginia. Oilstones, hones, wheelstones, scythestones, and rubbing stones valued at $115,175 were produced in Arkansas, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, and Pennsylvania. Emery to the value of $51,131 was produced in New York. Garnet amounting to 1,501 short tons and valued at $2129,581 was produced in New York and New Hampshire. The dimensioned earth and riprap produced amounted to 55,901 short tons and were valued at $611,021. Turbopoli and rittenstone, produced in Illinois, Missouri, Georgia, and Pennsylvania and dimensioned earth was produced in California, Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Hampshire, New York, Oregon, Virginia, and Washington. Pumice to the amount of 37,704 short tons, valued at $623,185 was produced in California, Kansas and Nebraska.

William R. Wilcox Manages Hughes Campaign for President

WILLIAM R. WILCOX,
NEW REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CHAIRMAN.

William R. Wilcox, former chairman of the public service commission for the First New York state district (which embraces New York city), has been named as chairman of the Republican national committee to direct the campaign. Mr. Wilcox was the personal choice of Mr. Hughes, and there was a report that the stamp of approval had been put upon him by Colonel Roosevelt. Mr. Hughes is understood, wanted Mr. Wilcox because he had known him for years and had implicit faith in his judgment. Wilcox has the added advantage of having served two and a half years as chairman of the New York State Committee of New York. Of late he has practiced law and has not been closely affiliated with politics, and, like Mr. Hughes, did not participate actively in the campaign of 1912.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Freckles.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription of this double strength is guaranteed to remove them in a hurry.

Simply get an ounce of ointment, double strength from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is evident that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Church Controversy Settled.
The court of Washington county has approved the report of the auditors appointed to distribute the proceeds of the sale of the property of the West Brownsville Christian Church. The congregation disbanded several years ago, many members going to the South Brownsville Church. They claimed possession of the abandoned property, which was later sold, and the court now sustains their contention by approving the auditors' award.

HE'S GOING TO RETURN TO HIS WORK, HE SAYS

Arthur Jones is Now Well Man, Made So by Taniac.

Arthur Jones, harness maker, living at 118 L. Seventeenth street, Erie, Pa., made the following interesting statement regarding the remarkable benefits he received from Taniac. Mr. Jones said:

"I have suffered greatly from stomach trouble, and cramps of the head and throat. My condition grew so bad that I have found myself in no shape to work for several months. I had no appetite and whatever I ate caused gas to form on my stomach and a sickening feeling followed. My nerves were all out of sorts, and I was generally run down so much so that I couldn't sleep much at night, but have remained awake for hours at a time. I needed the sleep too, and my condition worried me no little.

"I saw Taniac advertised in the papers and heard some friends talking about it. I got some of the medicine and have taken it for about two or three weeks. The first dose of Taniac helped me and I have improved steadily ever since.

"I can now sleep good at night. I have a fine appetite and I suffer no more stomach trouble or cramps. I am a well man, and I owe it all to Taniac. I am going to return to my work in a few days. That is what Taniac did for me."

Taniac is now sold in Connellsville exclusively by the Connellsville Drug Company where the prudent preparation can be had.—Adv.

THE NEW FOOTWEAR

Colonial Pumps and Dainty Kid Slippers Enhanced by Buckles, Etc.
By Mary Elmer

Every woman wishes that she possessed the perfect foot of Cinderella, yet knows that just a few gifted ones are so blessed, she is sensible enough to abide by the facts and accept the next best thing. Every woman cannot possess a perfect foot, but every woman can possess perfectly fitting shoes—and unless she does, she is not living up to the requirements of health and beauty of fashion.

The importance of well-groomed feet cannot be too forcibly impressed, for there is no better tell-tale of the slovenly person than the evidence of slipped shoes, run-down heels, missing buttons, and a soiled appearance. The vogue for contrasting tops which are invariably light colored afford a splendid opportunity for picking out the really careless person, for surely the matter of keeping such shoes in fair condition is a test of patience and neatness. True, as the summer approaches the average woman discards the high shoe for the low pump or slipper. Fascinating kid pumps and slippers are shown in delightful shades of gray, tan, brown, and russet, with hostess in matching tones. Black, too, is white, and of course very popular, the latter seen in canvas, buckskin and kid. Charming slippers with head trimming and often a single button strap are shown in brown, these proving distinctly rich and attractive with a suitable costume. The colonial pump, with a very large buckle and the tongue, is very much in evidence and is particularly smart in evidence and is particularly smart from the back. The black patent models are shown with combinations of these materials, this proving exceptionally attractive.

The matter of high shoes for summer is yet to be considered. Many women object to them because they claim they are uncomfortably warm, others think that they detract from the daintiness of the summer outfit, yet the fact remains that high shoes will be worn. There are exceptionally attractive high kid boots that are very light weight and most attractive provided they are well fitted. These are so light in weight that it is difficult to imagine an objection offered on this account. They are daintily perforated and finished with pearl owl-eye buttons. The high lace shoe is also shown in attractive styles, but there is a lack of dressiness about the lace shoe that is unquestionable.

A forecast of the shoe situation may be gotten imported from Paris. They were shown in black patent leather and suede, the two materials cleverly combined. They were button boots, and one got a view of the closing provided that the shoes could be viewed from the back. The black patent leather forming a panel was evident in the back, also the entire lower part of the shoe. The manner in which the suede was introduced was most unusual and interesting. It formed a garter, but instead of closing in the usual manner it cut off abruptly in scallops and buttoned, not on one side of the patent leather but on both sides. This was the most unique feature of these shoes, for in reality, there were four rows of buttons to be fastened instead of the ordinary two. While these boots were imported in the combination of patent leather and gray suede, it is highly probable that they will be copied in white kid and suede and may other light summer combinations. The samples were fashioned as described because they were signed for the fall season.

Undoubtedly the woman of fashion will approve of these attractive items for they are the last word in fashionable footwear. The woman who can obtain them in one of the summer combinations such as suede and glazed kid, or buckskin and kid will be truly fortunate for there is nothing newer.

OLD TIME PLAYERS LIVE IN THE PAST

Expert Says Modern Performers
Are Second Raters.

COLLINS HURTS WHITE SOX

Baseball Scribe Claims Second Sacker
Is Usurping the Power of Manager
Rowland—Says There Is No Harmony
In Club—Other Comment.

There is something singularly pathetic in the will of the old time ball player that the present day generation of diamond performers are blind; that they can't hold a candle alongside of the hardened old characters who worked for public approval in the days when baseball was fighting to gain a foothold and players in order to succeed had to fight his way to the top by sheer grit and nerve, says Abe Kemp, baseball expert.

You can't convince the old guard that Cobb has anything on Bill Lange or Jim Peasey or Harry Stovey; that Hal Chase could teach Dan Brouthers any tricks about playing first base or show Charley Comiskey any points about the tactics of play around that station; that Jimmy Archer, Johnny Kling, Doc Powers and Billy Sullivan in their prime could dare even to walk on the same side of the street as Buck Ewing or Charley Bennett, or that Christy Mathewson, Walter Johnson or Grover Alexander could fling a baseball with any more power than "Old Time" Radcliffe or Clarkson.

"The old timers were the real ball players," said a veteran of the diamond. "They played the game, while the present generation—bahl! The whole outfit makes me sick."

You have to concede the old timer his point or subject yourself to ridicule.

"Do you know that one of the proudest moments of my life was when I was hit on the hand by a thrown ball from Dugdale, who is now president of the Seattle club?" missed Garnet Bush, who, after casting aside the garb of empire, is perfectly human. "I was a kid then around Kansas City. One day at the park I played catch with Dug, and his return throw hit me right on the thumb, and that member swelled up worse than a poisoned pin. I was the happiest kid in town that night. I made the visit of all the neighborhood kids and showed them where Dugdale hit me, and I was the envy of every kid in town. My folks wanted to fix the finger for me, but I wouldn't listen. I kept that banged finger for weeks, as proud of it as a baby of a new toy."

"Spot" Ewing says the trouble with the Chicago White Sox is a plain case of "too many cooks." "Spot" avers that Rowland made a big mistake when he selected Eddie Collins as club captain, as the ex-Athletic star is gradually usurping the power supposed to be held by Rowland. The result is that there is little harmony in the club.

Les Sheehan and George McHale, though playing on opposite teams, have organized a mutual admiration society, and after each game these youngsters get together and mete out copious praises to each other on the work of the day.

Both Sheehan and McHale hail from Santa Clara university and played together on the varsity team.

The other day McHale pounded out a three base hit to center field, and as he stopped on third Sheehan said, "That was some hit, George." McHale was so beside himself with joy he nearly implanted a kiss on Sheehan for his kind words.

Burns, Tigers' First Sacker, Benched For Weak Hitting, Makes Good Later

THE ability of George Burns, the Tigers' first baseman, to make good in the places resigned him his job at first, where Heftman was stationed for several weeks. According to report, Burns' case is very peculiar. First George was benched because he had a habit of sliding out whenever a hit was needed. Then Burns got another chance, and out of twenty-four opportunities to drive in advance runners George came to time on seventeen occasions. A man who can do that cannot be kept out of the game, and the boy from Toga has the first base job checked for some time. Photo shows Burns making a one hand stop.

Big Leaguers' Talks During Batting Slump.

"There is nothing a man wants for more when he wants it and can't get it than a base hit or a chew of plug," remarked Gabby Gravano of the Phillies during one of his batting slumps. This brought to the mind of Bobby Byrne the one day in his life when he wanted a hit above anything on earth and did not get it. Bobby had made

Good One on Golfer.

A. W. Tillinghast, writing in the May issue of the Golf Illustrated, tells this one:

A certain Philadelphia golfer was playing over the Merion course. His caddy was a boy who was accustomed to carry at another nearby course and consequently was quite unfamiliar with the ability of his employer. Evidently a badly topped drive at the start did not engender a very excited opinion.

"Do you think I can get there with my iron?" queried the Merion man, estimating the distance to the green. "Sure!" came the confident reply. "If you hit it often enough."

GABE GRAVANO OF THE PHILLIES.

Gave him in the opening contest at Cincinnati in 1911. In the lobby of the hotel he heard two fans talking. "Didn't that Pirate third baseman crack 'em today?" asked one. "He made five consecutive hits."

"All bunk!" snorted the other. "Those things happen often, and I'll bet you $10 that he doesn't get one safe to tomorrow."

The next day Bobby tried his hardest to win that $10 for his booster and cut down the roll of the knocker.

"But it wouldn't work," snarled Byrne. "Bescher caught two of my long line drives, and Dick Egan shared one that seemed sure over second."

THERE'S TWO SIDES TO BASEBALL GAME.

There are two sides to the baseball game.

Casey Jones fans with the bases filled, two out and one run needed to tie.

Jones failed in the pinch, giving a miserable exhibition of how not to hit, fanning on three and curving—From Home Town.

Smith weakened in the ninth, but, with the bases filled and two out and the mighty Casey Jones at bat, tightened and fanned the great slugger. It was a wonderful exhibition of tripping on the part of Smith.

LARRY DOYLE, ONE OF THE GIANTS' SPEEDSTERS.

og. Burns was at the top of his speed, and so was Doyle. I believe that was the fastest ball club I ever saw, much less imagined."

But Robertson is faster, at least going to first than either Snodgrass, Shaffer or Hrazar. Knott seems to be the equal of any of the three. If the present team is not on a parity in speed with the Giants of 1913 it is because some of the veterans have begun slowing down. Possibly it is because of that McGraw attributes the 1913 speed superiority.

UNCLE JOE THE STORY TELLER

THIS WEEK HIS SUBJECT IS PLANT LIFE

How Nature Cares for the Weakest Flower and the Mightiest Tree---The Progression of Plants From Tiny Seeds to Full Growth.

UNCLE Joe, The Story Teller, had been out for a short stroll. It was a Sunday morning in early spring, and Uncle Joe had brought back a small bunch of delicate wild flowers, the contemplation of which as he sat upon the porch bench seemed to afford him great pleasure and satisfaction. Here it was the children, freshly dressed and awaiting the expiration of the half-hour when it would be time to start to Sunday school, found him.

"O, look at the spring beauties!" cried Lucy, in delight.

"Come here and let me pin them on you," said Uncle Joe.

"What is that white one?" asked Dick, pointing to a blossom.

"That is the blood root," answered Uncle Joe.

"It is usually the first wild flower to appear in this part of the country. But, this year the spring beauties seem to be running it a tight race."

"Why are there no wild flowers in winter?" Lucy wanted to know.

"Flowers and plants, like people, are born, feed, grow, have children, sleep and at last die. For some plants winter means death, and for others only sleep till spring. For most wild flowers winter means death. For their seed it means sleep."

"Tell us some more," pleaded Lucy.

"Well, listen," said the Story Teller. And this is Uncle Joe's Story About Plant Life.

"When a seed falls into the ground so long as the earth is cold and dry, it lies like a person in a trance, as if it were dead; but as soon as the warm, damp spring comes, and the busy little sun-waves pierce down into the earth, they wake up the plant-let and make it begin its life."

"At first the growing seed has no leaves or roots with which to feed upon the soil or the sunlight. But, very much like the same as the little chicken in the egg, it feeds upon that which is within it contained in its shell, or covering. And, as the little chicken grows legs, wings and down before it pecks through the shell, the little seed develops roots, shoots and the material for the making of leaves."

"So soon as the tiny roots begin to drink up nourishment from the soil, the nourishment so taken fills up the little cells closest to the roots and expands them so that they keep pushing up and feeding the cells above them, and thus the plant is forced up and into the light of day to grow and live out its life."

"Once peeping above ground the plant can no longer afford to be idle and live upon prepared food. It must work for itself, just as the little chicken must learn early to scratch for itself. So far it has been taking in food of the same kind as you and I; that is, food which has once been alive. Think over what people eat and drink and you will find almost all of it has been alive; meat, vegetables, bread, milk; all these are made from living matter. And, though you do take in such things as water and salt, and even iron and phosphorus, you could not live on such alone. The human body requires to be fed with food which can be worked up into living matter. But the plant, as soon as it has roots and leaves, begins to make living matter out of matter that has never been alive."

"Hour after hour and day after day our plant goes on pumping up water and food from the earth from its roots to its leaves, drinking in carbonic acid from the air, and using the sun-waves to work them all up into food to be sent to all parts of its body. In this way the leaves act as the stomach of the plant, and digest its food."

"Sometimes, more water is drawn up into the leaves than can be used, and then the leaf opens thousands of little mouths in the skin of its under surface which let the drops out just as drops of perspiration ooze through the pores of our skin when we are overheated. When the air is damp and the plant has too much water these little mouths open and let it out, but when the air is dry, and the plant wants to keep as much water as it can, they are closely shut. There are as many as a hundred thousand of these mouths under one apple-leaf, so you may imagine how small they often are."

"The plants which live only one year take in just enough food to supply their daily wants and to make seed. After the water is no longer carried up such plants wither and die, but the seed makes its bed wherever it may fall into earth, and if it lights upon good ground and is properly covered up by leaves and soil, becomes a new plant next year."

"Of course, you know seeds are formed in flowers, and that the seeds are necessary to grow into new plants. Most carefully does the flower protect its seeds, as carefully in its own way as the best of mothers protect their children."

"To their old flowers call the busy little bees and like insects, holding out to them their tempting drops of honey. And as the bees fly from flower to flower they take with them a ripening sort of seed-food, called pollen, which carried from one to the other helps the seed grow strong and able to grow flowers when they shall have become plants."

"The bee is guided to the flowers by their bright colors and their sweet scents. The brighter colored and showier flowers, as a rule are not the most fragrant, while many of the most fragrant are most modest of appearance. You will be surprised if you once begin to count them up, how many white and dull or dark colored flowers are sweet-scented, while gaudy flowers, such as the tulip, fox glove and hollyhock, have little or no scent. And then, just as in the world we find some people who have everything to attract others to them, beauty and gentleness, cleverness, kindness and loving sympathy, so we find some flowers, like the beautiful lily, the lovely rose, and the delicate hyacinth, which have color and scent and graceful shapes all combined."

"Have you ever noticed how different flowers open and close at different times? The daisy receives its name DAY'S EYE, because it opens at sunrise and closes at sunset, while the evening primrose and others spread out their blooms just as the daisy is going to bed. And there is a very good reason for all this."

"The daisy opens by day, because it is visited by day insects, but those particular moths which carry the pollen of the honeysuckle and other evening-opening flowers, fly only by night, and if such flowers opened by day other insects might steal their honey, while they would not be of right size or shape to touch the pollen bags and carry the dust."

"Again, some flowers close when over rain is coming; some to prevent their pollen dust from being washed away, and others to protect their drops of honey. Cup-shaped flowers often droop their heads to protect the honey-glands within them, for if the cup became full of rain or dew the honey would be useless, and the insects would come to visit them."

"But it is not only necessary that the flowers should keep their honey for insects, they also have to guard it carefully against the wrong kind of insects. Ants love honey as well as bees and butterflies. Against the robber insects flowers protect themselves by hairy, or gummy, stems and also thorns and bristles."

"A thorough botanist has little need of either a watch or a barometer while among plants and flowers. From the flowers which are opening and closing he can very fairly approximate the hour of the day, and in many instances a pretty shrewd calculation may be made in regard to future weather conditions."

"The shapes, colors and scents of flowers are adapted to lure those particular insects best suited to carrying pollen from kind to kind. The lower petal of the violet provides an ideal rest for the bee after its flight, and a comfortable support to the insect while engaged upon securing its drop of honey in trade for the pollen it brings."

"And after frost has come and all the tender flowers are withered and dead, after the leaves of bushes and trees have fallen as a soft cover over earth, the little seeds of summer time lie sound asleep throughout the long night of winter, until the warm breath of spring shall kiss them into life again on just such a bright, glorious morning as this."

"What time is it, Uncle Joe?" asked Lucy.

"Time for you children to run along to Sunday school," replied Uncle Joe, after glancing at his watch.

"I'd almost as soon stay here," said Dick.

SUFFRAGISTS FROM 10 COUNTIES WILL MEET AT SOMERSET

Mr. E. E. Kiernan to be Hostess at Her Country Home on July 7.

NEW FLAG TO BE DISPLAYED

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw Expected to Dedicate Emblem After It Is Presented to County Leaders by Mrs. Orindy of the State Association.

Mrs. E. E. Kiernan, fourth vice president of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association, will be hostess at her home near Somerset, Somerset county, July 7, when an all day rally of suffragists from 10 counties, together with representatives from the eastern and western parts of the state will be held.

The rally is an unusual gathering at which Mrs. Kiernan is hostess to her suffrage friends.

This year the new state suffrage flag, just designed—a yellow field with the blue Pennsylvania Keystone in the center surrounded with 11 blue stars representing the suffrage states—will be displayed for the first time. It is expected that Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, the honorary national suffrage president, as a minister and suffrage leader, will dedicate the flag formally after which it will be presented by the county leaders to the state president Mrs. George B. Orindy, as the representative of the state association, and then raised for the first time with the American flag.

Other than this ceremony, there will be no formalities the day being given over to entertainment.

In addition to the members of the state suffrage board, there will be present the most active and prominent women interested in suffrage in Pennsylvania. Accommodations have been made for between 700 and 800 persons.

Mrs. Kiernan's farm is one of the show places of Somerset, it is surrounded by broad gardens and a farm of 150 acres. Mrs. Kiernan grows many "crock cheese," a delicacy of the Pennsylvania Dutch settlements, and other epicurean products of the farm.

Fashions. There are fashions in medicine as well as in millinery. The old time cathartic pills with their harsh drastic effects have gone out, and it is high time they had. In their place we have the mild laxatives and gentle cathartics of which Chamberlain's Tablets is one of the most popular. When the proper dose is taken the effect of these tablets is so agreeable and so natural that you do not realize that it has been produced by a medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets also strengthen the stomach and improve the digestion. Obtainable everywhere.—Adv.

"WHO'S GUILTY?"—Anna Nilsson and Toni Moore are featured in the two reel photoplay "Puppets of Fate," which is the first of a series of 14 dramas released by the Pathe under the title of "Who's Guilty." It is the story of a young surgeon forced to perform a delicate operation on his wife while under the pretentious influence of a woman who has seduced him. His wife dies. Who is guilty? "The Social Pirates," a two-reel drama featuring Marion Sals and Ollie Kirkby. In this adventure the two young ladies succeed in duping a quack doctor by using the very same methods on him which he employed against his victims. "The Railroad Bandit" is a two-reel Bison railroad drama with Marie Walcamp. It is the story of a young engineer, almost single-handed, for the love of a girl, defeats a gang of hold-up men and recovers the loot they took from the girl's father's train. "Romance at London" is a Larmille comedy with Rupert Julian. Rupert as the unwilling co-respondent in a divorce case trembles to meet the woman's husband because he is a prize fight promoter. "Love Quarantined" is a Jokers comedy with Gale Henry. Tomorrow Clara Kimball Young in the five-reel drama, "The Feast of Life."

AT THE GLOBE.

"THE RACE"—A five part Paramount attraction which has to do with the adventures of Jimmy Grayson, the frivolous son of a wealthy manufacturer, is featured today. Victor Moore, America's leading comedian, and Miss Aulia King, who crossed the continent in an automobile alone, are starred. Jimmy loses $10,000 in gambling and is disowned by his stern father. While standing in the street wondering what he should do next he is run down by an automobile owned by a wealthy old woman and driven by a beautiful foreign chauffeur. The owner of the car secures Jimmy's employment as mechanic in a garage, and place he has no money, the attractive young "chauffeur" takes him to her father at their home. Mr. VanDyke is a clerk in Grayson's office and to obtain money to make models for a new carburetor he has invented has stolen $5,000 from the firm. Grace, his daughter working as a chauffeur, is ignorant of this theft until it is finally discovered and he is compelled to confess to her. Jimmy and VanDyke have forfeited the carburetor and have offered it for sale but are unable to secure the money for it immediately. Grayson to retrieve his car plans a transcontinental trip. The regular driver having been taken ill, Jimmy is appointed substitute. The rival firm learning of this also fits up a car for a similar trip and Grace, hoping to secure sufficient money to keep her father out of jail, is allowed to drive it. So Jimmy and Grace, each unknown to the other, start on their long transcontinental flight. Garages are buried and every obstacle of every description placed in their way. Finally the Grayson agents send Grace over the wrong road and she plunges over a bank. There she is found by Jimmy and her reason for taking the trip is explained. Jimmy decides that he instead of Grace's father should go to jail, and deliberately breaks his car. Grace later receives a telegram from her father to the effect that he has received the $5,000. Grace hustles to the jail and turns $10,000 of it over to him.

CARNIVAL CONTINUES TO ATTRACT LARGE CROWDS

The Tom T. Kennedy's Shows Reluctantly Give Up Their Owner.

The carnival with its revelry, its merriment, its pagantry and feasting, is once again in our midst. Not the old time carnival which sprang like a migrant and gyrated about the land minus all responsibility. But the established institution which bears similarity to a miniature world fair, requires a man with great executive ability to guide and pilot it on its pilgrimages, a man with sound business logic, and an aptitude for handling large financial affairs; a man who has the clutch thrown into "high" in so far as good sound business judgment and laws prevail.

Such a man is Con T. Kennedy, the great leader of the visiting carnival now here. He was one of the first to realize the future possibilities of the carnival when the idea of such a thing was still in the embryo. When he visited the great World's Fair at Chicago and viewed the midway with its many attractions and novelties, the idea permeated his brain to figure out ways and means of making it possible for the towns, cities and hamlets to enjoy the same features given to the fortunate ones in whose surroundings the big event occurred.

Novelty and amusement devices were planned, and agents sent to all parts of the world to collect them. It was at this stage Mr. Kennedy faced the colossal task of making a great conglomeration into a concrete whole, always bearing in mind whether or not an enterprise of such magnitude could be moved profitably from city to city.

Having mastered the preliminary details of the enterprise, Mr. Kennedy went to work and placed his institution on a plan of solid foundation. He watched his aggregation grow from year to year, to great magnitude, because he adhered to the principle that better than big business was clean business. He gathered a fortune in his chosen vocation, always bending in mind not whether his dollars were many, but were they clean? It has ever been Mr. Kennedy's habit in all his business dealings to ask himself "Is this other fellow getting an even break?" And he has often refused to enter into a transaction when his own gain would have meant disaster to the other fellow.

The great public are his customers. He has nothing but amusement to sell to them. His wares must be good wares, or they would not entertain the purchaser. His must be a clean profit and the goods he sells must be a clean buy. A combination between seller and buyer of this type is one of so much satisfaction is bound to be a success and bring results. That is the cardinal reason why the Tom T. Kennedy's shows lead the world, and are different from many others. That is why Mr. Kennedy finds so responsive a cord in the public, who are his patrons by the tens of thousands, whenever he appears in their vicinity. Thus is explained the rise and success of Con T. Kennedy, who rose from orphan boy travel through life's various pitfalls, surrounding all obstacles which barred his path until he reached the coveted goal of "King of the Carnival World," and is so recognized in the great amusement field of endeavor.

"Well, now young fellow, I'll tell you what will surprise you. You say you saw signs of men and trees, traps and the like. Well, we have seen the natives themselves. Poor devils they were, down a faded little chaps, and had enough to make them so. It seems that the humans hold one side of this plateau—over yonder, where you saw the cave—and the ape men held the other side. There is a bloody war between them all the time. That's the situation so far as I could follow it. Well, yesterday the ape men got hold of a dozen of the humans and brought them in as prisoners. You never heard such a jabbering and shrieking in your life. The men were little red fellows and had been bitten and clawed so that they could hardly walk. The ape men put two of them to catch them and three—fairly pulled the arm of one of them—it was perfectly beastly. Plucky little chaps they are and hardly gave a squeak. But it turned us absolutely sick. Summerlee faints and even Challenger had as much as he could stand. I think they have cleared, don't you?"

We listened intently, but nothing came of the outline of the birds broke the deep peace of the forest. Lord Rotton went on with his story.

CHAPTER XVII.

A Thrilling Rescue.

I THINK you have had the escape from your life young fellow, my lad. It was a terrible thing. I think that put you clean out of their heads, else they would have been back to the camp for you, as sure as fate and sent you in. Of course, as you said, they have been watching us from the beginning out of that tree, and they knew perfectly well that we were one shot. However, they could think only of this new find. So it was I and not a bunch of apes that dropped in on you in the morning. Well, I had a hard business afterward. My God, what a nightmare the whole thing is! You remember the great brittle of sharp cones down below, where we found the skeleton of the American? Well, that is just under the tree and that is the jump of the place of their prisoners. I expect there's a heap of skeletons there, if we looked for 'em. They have a sort of their parade ground on the top, and they make a proper ceremony about it. One by one the poor devils have to jump, and the game is to see whether they are merely dashed to pieces or whether they get skinned on the ground. They took us out to see it and the whole thing was a bit of a show. One of the Indians played, and the game went through on like kitting needles through a pat of butter. No wonder we found that poor Yankee's skeleton with the cancer growth between his ribs. It was horrible—but it was a bloody interesting one. We were all fascinated to see them take the life, even when we thought it would be our turn next on the springboard.

Well, it wasn't they kept six of the Indians up for today—that's how I understand it—but I fancy we were to be the star performers in the show. Challenger might not get it, but Summerlee and I were in the bill. Their language is more than half signs, and it was not hard to follow them. So I thought it was time we made a break for it.

"So I broke away early this morning," gave my hand a kick in the tummy that laid him out and upturned for the camp. There I got you and the gun, and here we are."

"But the professor?" I cried in consternation.

"Well, we must just go back and fetch 'em. I couldn't bring 'em with me. Challenger was not fit for the effort. The only chance was to get the gun and try a rescue. Of course they may natter them at once in revenge. I don't think they would touch Challenger but I wouldn't answer for Summerlee. But they would have had him in any case. Of that I am certain. So I haven't made matters any worse by bolting. But we are honor bound to go back and have them out or see it through with you, young fellow, my lad, for it will be one way or the other before long."

Off we started, and when we reached the edge of the cliff I looked over and saw our good old black Zambos sitting smoking on a rock below us. I would have given a great deal to have had him and told him how we were placed, but it was too dangerous lest we should be heard. The woods seemed to be full of the ape men. Again and again we heard their curious shrieking chatter. At such times we plunged into the nearest clump of bushes and lay still until the sound had passed away. Our advance therefore was very slow, and two hours at least must have passed before I saw by Lord John's cautious movements that we must be close to our destination. He noticed it to me to his skill, and he crawled forward himself. In a minute he was back again, his face quivering with eagerness.

"Come!" said he. "Come quick! I hope to the Lord we are not too late already!"

I found myself shaking with nervous excitement as I remembered forward and lay down beside him, looking out through the bushes at a clearing which stretched before us.

A wide, open space lay before us, some hundreds of yards across, all green turf and low broken growing to the very edge of the cliff. Round this clear, level, but hilly of foliage stood one above the other among the trees. A rocky, with every now a little house, would best convey the idea. The openings of these huts and the branches of the trees were thronged with a dense mob of ape people, who from their size I took to be the families and infants of the tribe. They formed the background of the picture and were all looking out with eager interest at the same scene which fascinated and bewildered us.

In the open and near the edge of the cliff there had assembled a crowd of some hundred of these shaggy, red but creatures, many of them of immense size, and all of them horrible to look upon. There was a certain discipline among them, for none of them attempted to break the line which had been formed. In front there stood a small group of Indians—little clean limbed, red fellows whose skins gleamed like polished bronze. A tall, thin white man was standing beside them, his head bowed, his arms folded, his whole attitude expressive of his horror and dejection. There was no mistaking the singular form of Professor Summerlee.

In front of and around this dejected group of prisoners were several ape men, who watched them closely and made all escape impossible. Then, right out from all the others, and close to the edge of the cliff, were two figures, so strange, and under other circumstances so ludicrous, that they absorbed my attention. The one was our comrade, Professor Challenger. The remains of his coat still hung in shreds from his shoulders, but his shirt had been all torn out, and his great beard merged itself in the black tangle which covered his mighty chest. He had lost his hat, and his hair which had grown long in our wanderings, was lying in wild disorder. A single day seemed to have changed him from the highest product of modern civilization to the most degenerate savage in South America. Beside him stood his master, the king of the ape men. In all things he was, as Lord John had said, the very image of our professor, save that his coloring was red instead of black. The same short, broad figure, the same heavy shoulders, the same forward hang of the arms, the same brilliant beard merging itself in the hairy chest. Only above the eyebrows, where the sloping forehead and low, curved skull of the ape man were in sharp contrast to the broad brow and magnificent cranium of the European, could one see any marked difference. At every other point the thing was an absurd parody of the professor.

All this, which takes me so long to describe, impressed itself upon me in a few seconds. Then we had very different things to think of, for an active drama was in progress. Two of the ape men had seized one of the Indians out of the group and dragged him forward to the edge of the cliff. The king caught the man by the leg and arm and swung him three times backward and forward with tremendous violence. Then with a frightful heave they shot the poor wretch over the precipice. With such force did they throw him that he curved high in the air before beginning to drop. As he vanished from sight the whole assembly, except the guards, rushed forward to the edge of the precipice and there was a long pause of absolute silence, broken by a mad yell of delight. They sprang about, tossing their long hair, arms in the air and howling with exultation. Then they fell back from the edge, formed themselves again into line and waited for the next victim.

This time it was Summerlee. Two of his guards caught him by the wrists and pulled him brutally to the front. He too stood for a long time, his head bowed and his arms folded, and waited for the king to give the signal. Then he was swung backward and forward with tremendous violence. Then with a frightful heave they shot the poor wretch over the precipice. With such force did they throw him that he curved high in the air before beginning to drop. again, while cheering and yelling with pure ferocity and joy of slaughter as I did so.

With our four good guns the two of us made a horrible havoc. Both the guards who held Summerlee were down, and he was staggering about like a drunken man, his arms outstretched, unable to realize that he was a free man. The dense mob of ape men ran about in bewilderment, wondering whence this storm of death was coming or what it might mean. They waved, gesticulated, screamed and tripped over those who had fallen. Then, with a sudden impulse, they all rushed in a howling crowd to the trees for shelter, leaving the ground around them spotted with their stricken comrades.

All the prisoners were left for the moment standing alone in the middle of the clearing.

Challenger's quick brain had grasped the situation. He seized the bewildered Summerlee by the arm, and the two men ran toward us. Two of the guards bounded after them and fell to two bullets from Lord John. We ran forward into the open to meet our friends and pressed a loaded rifle into the hands of each. But Summerlee was at the end of his strength. He could hardly totter. The ape men were recovering from their panic. They were coming through the brushwood and threatening to cut us off. Challenger and I ran Summerlee along one at each of his elbows, while Lord John covered our retreat, firing again and again as savage heads snatched at us out of the bushes. For a mile or more they chattered and howled at our very heels. Then the pursuit slackened, for they learned our power and would no longer face that unerring rifle.

When we had at last reached the camp we looked back and found ourselves alone.

In less than half an hour we had reached our brushwood retreat and concealed ourselves. All day we heard the excited calling of the ape men in the direction of our old camp, but none of them came our way and the tired fugitives, red and white, had a long, deep sleep.

We had imagined that our pursuers, the ape men, knew nothing of our brushwood hiding place, but we were soon to find out our mistake. The first sound in the woods was not a leaf moved upon the trees and all was peace around us—but we should have been warned by our first experience how cunningly and how patient these creatures can watch and wait until their chance comes. Whatever fate may be mine through life, I am very sure that I shall never meet death more than I was that morning. I missed one of the Indians who had died with us and asked where he was.

"He has gone to fetch some water," said Lord Rotton. "We fitted him up with an empty beef tin, and he is off."

"To the old camp?" I asked.

"No, to the brook. It's among the trees there. It can't be more than a couple of hundred yards. But the best part is certainly taking his time."

"I'll go and look after him," said I. I picked up my rifle and strolled in the direction of the brook leaving my friends to lay out the scanty breakfast.

CHAPTER XVIII.

"Those Were the Real Conquests."

It may seem to you that I should not for so short a distance I should quit the shelter of our friendly thicket, but you will remember that we were many miles from the camp, that so far as we knew the creatures had not discovered our retreat and that in any case with a rifle in my hands I had no fear of them. I had not yet learned their cunning or their strength.

I could hear the murmur of our brook somewhere ahead of me, but there was a tangle of trees and brushwood between me and it. I was making my way through this at a point which was just out of sight of my companions, when, under one of the trees I noticed something red huddled among the bushes. As I approached it I was shocked to see that it was the dead body of the missing Indian. He lay upon his side, his limbs drawn up and his head screwed round at a most unnatural angle, so that he seemed to be looking straight over his own shoulder. I saw a cry to warn my friends that something was amiss, and running forward, I stood over the body. Surely my guardian angel was very near me then for some instinct of fear, or it may have been some faint rustle of leaves, made me glance upward. Out of the thick green foliage which hung low over my head, two long, muscular arms covered with reddish hair were slowly descending. Another instant and the great, stealthy hands would have been upon my throat. I sprang backward, but quick as I was, those hands were quicker still. Through my sudden spring they seized a fatal grip, one of them caught the back of my neck and the other one my face. I threw my hands up to protect my throat, and the next moment the huge paw had slid down my face and closed over them. I was lifted from the ground and I felt an intolerable pressure forcing my head back and back until the strain upon the "cervical" spine was more than I could bear. My senses swam, but I still toiled at the hand and forced it out from my chin. Looking up I saw a frightful face with cold, inexorable light blue eyes looking down into mine. There was something hypnotic in those terrible eyes. I could struggle no longer. As the creature felt me grow limp in its grasp, two wide canines gleamed for a moment at each side of the wide mouth and the grip tightened still more upon my chin forcing it all ways upward and back. A thin, oval distended mist formed before my eyes and little silvery bells tinkled in my ears. Dully and far off I heard the crack of a rifle and was feebly aware of the shock as I was dropped to the earth, where I lay with my sense or reason cleared for a moment at each side of the wide mouth and the grip tightened still more upon my chin forcing it all ways upward and back. BIG DEVELOPMENT OF GREENE COUNTY COAL COMMENCED

It is Thought in a New Operation to be Opened on Ten Mile Run.

P. R. R. AUTHORIZES EXTENSION

From Besen to Clarksville to Reach the New Mine Large Holdings of Coal and Coke Operating and Consuming Companies Neighborhood.

The development of Greene county's coal field is to begin at a new point, and farther in the interior of the county, than by any plant which has yet been brought to an active stage of operation. Thus far the mining of Greene county coal for coke making or other commercial use has been limited to the operations of the Poland Coke Company, at Poland; the Ellsworth Coal Company, at Rine's Landing, and the Crucible Coal Company at Crucible, all points on the Monongahela railroad extension, and fronting on the river, or practically so. The Pitt Gas Coal Company at Besen on the Pennsylvania railroad is but a few miles up Ten Mile Creek from its mouth, which stream forms the dividing line between Greene and Washington counties, says The Weekly Courier.

Plans have been matured and all preliminaries arranged for the installation of a new plant which will move the advance guard of mining operations several miles nearer the center of the county and in close proximity to a large number of various steel tracts of coal held by companies which are operating in other mining districts of Western Pennsylvania.

W. H. Warner of Cleveland, O., and J. Y. Humphreys of Pittsburgh, formerly of the Besen Coke Company, and both at present important factors in the sale of iron, steel, coal and coke, and also interested in the production of the latter articles, have, with certain associates, made preparations to develop a tract of 600 acres of coal lying on Ten Mile creek not far from the village of Clarksville, Greene county.

No coke ovens will be erected at this operation but its activities will be confined to the mining of coal for shipment to independent by-product coke oven plants. An extension of the Pennsylvania railroad from Besen to the new operation has already been authorized to be made.

While no announcements have yet been made of the plans of other interests whose holdings are in the neighborhood of this operation, it is understood in well informed circles that this movement will mark the beginning of big developments in Greene county coal. Along the waters of Ten Mile creek, which runs from the northeast corner of the county by its south fork from Clarksville southwardly through Waynesburg, are groups of coal holdings which have been in the possession of respective operating companies or concerns for a number of years. One of the largest of these tracts is that of the Emerald Coal Company, consisting of 12,000 acres in Franklin, Washington and Washington townships, Julian Kennedy, the well known engineer and assessor, constitutes this holding company. F. M. Osborne and associates of Cleveland own upwards of 16,000 acres in the same townships. The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal & Coke Company, now combined with the Pittsburgh Coal Company, has a large tract running easterly from Ten Mile creek through Jefferson township to the Monongahela river. The Western Coal Company, and the Besen Coke Company and others own smaller tracts in the vicinity of the new mining operation that is shortly to be opened.

Southward from the tract just mentioned is another group lying along the waters of Muddy and Little Whately creeks. The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company and its subsidiaries the Greenock Coke Company and the Duckport Coke Company, own about 6,000 acres in Cuthbert township, W. H. Rowe, president of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, has a tract of 1,800 acres in the same township near neighbor to one owned by W. A. Stone of Uniontown. The Andrews & Fitchcock Iron Company has a tract adjoining that of the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company. LaBelle Iron & Steel Company and other Ohio valley and Wheeling interests have large acreages in this section. The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Company's tract in Morgan and Jefferson townships contains 2,800 acres. H. C. Frick is a large holder in this and other sections. Title to 11,000 acres in Perry township, still farther to the south, vested in the Saint Paul Coal Company, representing other holdings of Mr. Frick. The H. C. Frick Coke Company has 2,500 acres in Monongahela township, along Little Whately with a magnificent river frontage at Poundstone's Ferry.

The plans of the Wheeling, Ohio & Eastern railroad provide for two lines to be built to the Monongahela river from the town of Jefferson east of Waynesburg as the point of divergence. One of these branches will go down Ten Mile creek to Millsboro. The other will cross the intervening country to the south, strike Little Whately creek and descend that stream to its mouth at McClann's Ferry.

The Pennsylvania railroad already has a location and rights of way up Ten Mile creek from Besen to Waynesburg, which may interpose some obstacles in the way of the plans of the Wheeling, Ohio & Eastern in reaching Millsboro by practically the same route. It is stated the Pennsylvania railroad has no objection to having the proposed road from Wheeling meet the former at some point and thereby afford a river outlet to the latter without the necessity of constructing a parallel line down Ten Mile creek from Waynesburg.

A Tribute to the Flag

BY SENATOR GEORGE F. HOAR

"I have seen the glories of art and of architecture and of river and mountain. I have seen the sunset on the Jungfrau and the moon rise over Mont Blanc. But the fairest vision on which these eyes ever rested was the flag of my country in a foreign port. Beautiful as a flower to those who love it, terrible as a meteor to those who hate it, it is the symbol of the power and the glory and the honor of 50 millions of Americans."

—The above voices the sentiment of more than one hundred millions of Americans today.

Patriotism the Keynote Today

—Children too young to realize the deeper meaning of July 4th will nevertheless fill the day with enthusiastic fun. But with the boys on their way to the "border," the true significance of this great holiday will be most forcibly borne home to us older folk, and will mean a great deal more than the popping of firecrackers and picnics. —And picnics remind us that there will be play dresses, rompers, and wash suits for children, as well as suitable apparel for men and women to be supplied. Only a short time left to complete your preparations.
